This is another of those inexplicable and inexcusable filings at the South, and coming as it does from a neighbor who lives just beyond the river, which should be bond rather than boundary, it simply amazes us. Has not Booker Washington, the chief apostle of the negro race, often said that the door of opportunity stood whe open to his people in Southern States of this Union while in this States of this Union while in this States of the North it was shut fast? An humble negro has put it in this way, and better, "The white people of the North allow the negro to cat with them, but deny him the privilege of making something to eat."
